This square

There! You did it! You just left your mark.

Your fingerprints are now left on this square, whether that was your intention or not, whether you see them or not. The same thing happens in your daily life. You leave your mark everywhere, even without intending to. Even if it doesn't show.

Your fingerprints are unique, and so is the impression you make. Be proud of your uniqueness, of your difference and of what distinguishes you from others. And above all, be aware of the impact that your attitudes, words and acts have on others. Small details can sometimes have great importance...
